Headteacher's daily blog

Date: Friday 24th April 2020

Dear all,

Attached to each year group blog is a copy of the summer term curriculum map for the first half term. These were the ones we would have been sending out in 'normal' times, so please ignore any references to trips and things which unfortunately might not be happening. As staff were working on curriculum planning on the training day just before the Easter holiday, we thought we would still send the maps out. Some of the home learning tasks might relate to the summer term curriculum map, but many suggested tasks will be different due to new resources which are coming out online, and also because some other topics might seem more relevant because there are some good resources available online. I hope this makes sense.

I am very aware that many of the children would like to be able to share some of the work they have done with teachers. As I mentioned a while ago, we were in the process of trying to set up Microsoft Teams to give children folders for uploading work before the crisis. This is still in the process of being done by our I.T technician and we will share instructions soon. In the meantime we are setting up email accounts for each class which will enable you to send samples of work. I hope details of this will be sent out next week after we have been able to experiment with the system.

Happy birthday wishes to those children who would have celebrated birthdays this week: Hara-Rose, Fola-Jade, Chester, George (Hawks), Betsy, Hannah, George B, Logan, Lexie, Kaitlyn, Archie, Jake and Imogen. We hope you have all had the chance to celebrate your special day!

Attached to this whole school blog are two useful resources. One is a link to mental health support (for adults and children) and the other is from the Norfolk Safeguarding team. The link below also contains useful information:

Wishing you all the best,
