Headteacher's daily blog

Date: Thursday 30th April 2020

Dear all,

I hope you all enjoyed the videos of the teachers reading and passing on favourite books. Miss Kimbley showed me the fantastic video that has been made of some of the children in her class reading stories and sharing greetings. It is so good to be able to keep in touch in different ways and to know that there are so many great examples of how parents are supporting each other and their children. I know all the teachers have also loved seeing examples of the children's work being sent to them.

Another parent sent me the following link to a website she has found really useful:

On a more sombre note, children throughout the country are likely to have more questions about bereavement following all the news stories. The following websites are good ones to refer to if support is needed, including one for Nelson's Journey.

Wishing you all the best,
