Headteacher's daily blog

Date: Tuesday 12th May 2020

Dear all,

As I wrote yesterday, all schools are awaiting much clearer information about the government's proposals about re-opening schools and I will pass on any firmer details when these become clear. Until things become clear, it might be wise (depending on the age and maturity of your child) to limit discussions about when and how the children will be able to safely return. It must be so hard for young minds to understand all that is going on - to be told one message and then have to come to terms with a different one.

I received an email from Cavell Court thanking all the children for the pictures and messages they have been sending.

Finally, please click on the link below to view details of the fourth NSSP's virtual challenge. This week it is an athletics challenge!

Wishing you all the best,
