Headteacher's daily blog

Date: Tuesday 5th May 2020

Dear all,

I hope the first home learning day of the week went well. I am sure you will have heard a lot of discussion about the possibility of schools re-opening. As I have said before, speculation in the media can sometimes be very unhelpful as no information has come directly to schools about any definite plans. There are consultations taking place with teaching unions and I am sure a lot of options are currently being considered regarding dates and practical measures which will be needed. As soon as I know something more definite I will let you know, but please bear in mind the fact that past experience has shown that schools sometimes find things out only when news is released via the media or in government briefings. I hope this will not be the case with such an important topic.

Attached to this whole school blog is another updated bulletin from the South Norfolk Help Hub, providing up to date lists of useful local information.
